GLOBAL MONEY WEEK Toolkit

18-24 March 2024
Protect your money, secure your future
GMW2024 THEME

The GMW2024 theme, “Protect your money, secure your future”, focuses on safe money management and highlights the importance of adopting a responsible and informed approach to personal finances, by being aware of potential risks in the financial sector and protecting one’s hard-earned money. Such risks may include financial scams and frauds, including phishing, money muling and online shopping scams, and risks related to data privacy, such as identity theft. Young people are especially likely to fall victims of financial frauds and scams, due to their limited financial literacy and experience.

GMW SLOGAN

‘Learn.Save.Earn.’ is the official slogan of Global Money Week. Initially used as the theme of GMW2017, it aims at empowering children and youth not only to learn to manage their money wisely, but also to save for their futures and earn for themselves and their families.

Tip! To highlight GMW2024 theme on social media, please use #ProtectYourMoney #SecureYourFuture and the GMW slogan #LearnSaveEarn

ABOUT GLOBAL MONEY WEEK (GMW)

What is Global Money Week (GMW)?
GMW is an annual global awareness-raising campaign on the importance of ensuring that young people, from an early age, are financially aware, and are gradually acquiring the knowledge, skills, attitude and behaviours necessary to make sound financial decisions and ultimately achieve financial well-being and financial resilience. It is organised by the OECD International Network on Financial Education (OECD/INFE).

GMW’s first edition was in 2012, and since then the campaign reached more than 170 countries and economies worldwide.

Why is it important to teach children and youth about money matters from a young age?
It is important that children and young people develop sound financial habits, knowledge, attitudes, and behaviours from a young age to know how to manage their personal finances throughout their lives and be empowered to make better financial decisions for their future. The OECD Recommendation on Financial Literacy encourages governments and other stakeholders “to develop financial literacy from the earliest possible age” on topics and through channels that are appropriate to the age of the learners.

What is the goal of GMW?
GMW promotes efforts aimed at improving financial literacy of young people. The ultimate goal of GMW is to ensure that all children and youth have access to high-quality financial education, they learn about money matters and are able to take smart financial decisions that can improve their future financial resilience and financial well-being.

Who can participate?
All national and international stakeholders can join GMW, including public institutions (ministries of finance and education, central banks, financial regulatory authorities and so on), financial institutions and their associations, civil society organisations, youth associations, universities and schools, education and health professionals, parents and any organisation that may play a role in ensuring that young people become financially literate. Find out more here.

Where is GMW happening?
Everywhere, online and offline! GMW is an international campaign, with many events, activities, projects, launches and competitions organised by over 170 participating countries globally. Click here to see where GMW has taken place in the past.

What happens during GMW?
During GMW, public, private and not-for-profit organisations work together to organise different types of activities for children and youth to spark excitement around financial education through:

- online activities, drawing, photo, essay and video contests, online financial education workshops, online financial education escape rooms or other exciting activities on financial education and money matters;
- visits to banks, parliaments, central banks, stock exchanges, currency exchanges, money museums, local businesses, and global corporate companies;
- financial workshops and sessions;
- financial education fairs, open market events, financial literacy rallies;
- financial education games and savings competitions, financial football matches;
- drawing, photo, essay and video contests

About the OECD International Network on Financial Education (OECD/INFE)
The OECD International Network on Financial Education (INFE) brings together public authorities from around the world to collect evidence on financial literacy and develop policy analysis on financial education. OECD/INFE methodology and high-level principles on financial education have been endorsed in international fora like the G20 and APEC. Members meet twice a year to share experiences, discuss strategic priorities and develop policy responses.

PLAN YOUR GLOBAL MONEY WEEK

Did you know?

You can help your community to stay protected from fraud and scams through an educational project.

Start by looking into scam and fraud cases in your community. Conduct surveys, engage in meetings, and interview experts such as bank specialists and village authorities. Once you’ve identified the main issues, spearhead an educational campaign to raise awareness and fight against them. Utilize creative tools like posters and lessons to empower your community against financial threats. Together, let’s build a resilient defence against scams and frauds!

How does GMW Campaign work?

Organisations across the world organise their own GMW events during the Week, and share news, photos and information with the GMW Secretariat. News of all these activities are linked to each other via social media, and the GMW website.

How to plan GMW in your country?

• Explore GMW website for country overviews, available resources and inspiring ideas for your GMW;
• If you are a public institution that is already an OECD/INFE full or regular member, you may take the lead of GMW in your country, identifying goals you wish to achieve, engaging partners you wish you collaborate with, and coordinating the activities of all stakeholders in your country. Get in touch with the GMW Secretariat to let us know if you would like to coordinate GMW in your country;
• If you are not a public institution or not an OECD/INFE full or regular member, check if there is one in your country and get in touch with them so that you can all coordinate to achieve higher impact;
• If there is no OECD/INFE full or regular member institutions in your country, but your institution would like to join, get in touch with our team, so that we can support you through the process;
• Collaborate with a range of organisations and institutions to plan GMW branded events and activities;
• Share your plans with the GMW Secretariat via the GMW Pre-Form;
• Collecting data from participants;
• Organising webinars prior to GMW2024 to share GMW updates and resources worldwide;
• Organising regional and global launches;
• Organising webinars prior to GMW2024 to share GMW updates and resources and meet other participants;
• Organising regional and global launches;
• Collecting data from participants all over the world to generate GMW Reports with country highlights.

Is there a fee to take part?

Absolutely not! All that we ask from you is that you keep us updated on your GMW activities.

Please contact the GMW Secretariat: GMW_Secretariat@oecd.org or visit www.oecd.org/financial/education

How do we support you to organise your GMW?

• Developing resources that can help plan your Week (toolkit, brochure, GMW logos, etc.) See more at ‘Resources’ section on the website;
• Exploring ideas and offering advice to help you run a successful GMW;
• Linking you to national coordinators, or other partners in your country and worldwide;
• Organising webinars prior to GMW2024 to share GMW updates and resources and meet other participants;
• Organising regional and global launches;
• Collecting data from participants all over the world to generate GMW Reports with country highlights.

Sharing photos or videos with the GMW Team

Any photos or videos shared with the GMW Secretariat will need to be accompanied by duly filled in and signed photo and video consent forms, allowing the OECD and GMW to reproduce and re-use the photos and/or videos in GMW publications, website, social media etc. Without these forms, the GMW Secretariat will not be in a position to use the photos and/or videos.

• Option 1: For only a couple of photos, please email them directly to us at GMW_Secretariat@oecd.org
• Option 2: For sending all your photos, videos or forwarding larger files, please include these in a folder on Google Drive, provide us rights to access and download these files by sharing the link/URL to the folder via an email at GMW_Secretariat@oecd.org.
• Option 3: Upload your photos to Dropbox and share the link with us at GMW_Secretariat@oecd.org

PLEASE NOTE! For all media that include/show young people, please ensure that appropriate consent is obtained from parents, legal guardians, and/or from the photographer to ensure that the photos/videos may be widely published online, i.e. GMW website, publications, press and social media.

Tips for planning your GMW event!

• Don’t forget to add GMW to your annual event calendar;
• Contact your affiliated institutions, businesses, sponsors, and schools to inform them about the Week, and get them involved in GMW Campaign;
• Explore ideas for potential events in ‘Activities’ section;
• Get inspired by earlier events by reading GMW Reports published during 2013-2023;
• Take fun photos and videos with GMW logos and share them with others.

“...I am proud that we have the chance each year to participate in GMW activities, leaving an impact on the lives of children and youth nationwide through the various financial awareness raising activities that we implement.”

– Mrs. Azza EL Dorry, Head of the Children & Youth sector, Ministry of Youth, Egypt, GMW2017
Many different online and in person events and activities take place during the Global Money Week. Here are some examples of how you could develop exciting and interesting activities on financial education for children and young people through traditional and digital means.

Digital activities

Financial education online games
For example, it is possible to organise an online Escape Room where students need to reach a goal by solving financial literacy questions. Serious games are found to be more effective in terms of learning and retention as compared to conventional instructional methods. Students can work individually or in pairs to solve questions on various financial literacy topics. The game can be accompanied by classroom lessons, discussions with teachers and background course materials.

Online money quiz or online competition on financial topics through social media or the Kahoot! game-based learning platform. The Kahoot! platform allows to create learning games based on multiple-choice quizzes that can be accessed via a web browser or an app, thereby offering an opportunity to transform previously physical quizzes into “digital” ones.

Online competitions based on manual activities for children at home or in the classroom. Children can be asked to do some money-related practical activity (such as making a piggy bank with recycled material), ask parents or other adults to film the process, and share the results with national GMW organisers.

Other activities you could do online:
- Online financial education lessons and lectures, hackathons, motivational online sessions for teachers, volunteers and students;
- Short videos for social media (Facebook, Instagram, TikTok) covering topics related to GMW2024 slogan “Protect your money, secure your future!” Videos can include safe payment methods, online shopping tips, and explanations of which personal and financial data should be confidential;
- Online Q&A on money matters using social media (such as Instagram stories), by setting up video calls between students in the classroom and financial experts;
- Word games on different money topics (e.g., world currencies, clever savings, family budgeting, financial planning, financial fraud and payment security, consumer protection);
- School online drawing contest or comics competition on money issues;
- Online excursions to money museums
- Engage students and teachers from multiple countries in common activities. For example, participants can share their experiences on financial education in joint events, get to know the specifics and culture of each country or discuss topics of common interest related to money matters or the annual theme.

Visits to stock exchanges

Over 79 stock exchanges have participated in GMW

Stock exchanges can be part of the ‘Ring Around the World’ initiative, by inviting children and youth to ring the opening or closing bell at the stock exchange during GMW. This is a great opportunity for children and youth to learn more about the work of stock exchanges around the world.

Visits to money museums

85 money museums have taken part in GMW

Visits to money museums offer young people a great opportunity to draw on the past – learn about the history of money – to understand the importance of saving for their futures. Visits to the museum do not need to be limited to a walking tour, but can include various workshops where students can learn about different currencies and the history of money. For example, the Museum of the Bank of Greece implemented a programme focusing on the interaction between climate change and the economy, discussing the implications of individual financial behaviour on one’s financial future, on the environment and the society. The programme was organised around three topics: climate change; “save your money, saving earth”, with a focus on green saving; and “earn your money, saving earth”, around green employment and professions of the future.

Learning about personal finances by reducing food waste

You can create educational content with the purpose of teaching students about financial savings while reducing food waste. The content can consist of educational videos, home assignments, classroom challenges, and different learning assignments to highlight the subject of sustainable finances and sustainable food consumption. The students should be able to learn about the effects that reducing food waste can have both on our climate impact as well as our personal finances. Sweden’s Financial Supervisory Authority developed materials for the Svinnrik (“Waste rich”) campaign, such as a series of educational content directed towards teachers, with the purpose of teaching students about financial savings while reducing food waste.

Learn more and explore example case studies at ‘Activities’ section on www.globalmoneyweek.org or click here.
Visits to local businesses

GMW is a great opportunity for students to get to know the world of work.

Student groups can visit local businesses, their branches or head office to learn about how different departments work, the kind of jobs employees do, which skills are needed, and how a business works. These visits are a great opportunity for youth to learn lessons about creating livelihoods and getting entrepreneurship tips.

Visits to central banks & government

Organising youth visits to central banks, parliaments, and government departments, e.g. the Ministry of Finance or the Ministry of Education, and including them in activities such as participatory budgeting, fosters understanding of how policies are made, and the impact these decisions have.

Visits to schools & universities

Not only should students visit different organisations and institutions, but central bank staff, bank employees or entrepreneurs can visit schools and universities as well. It would be a great idea to hold workshops and sessions for youth!

Plan workshops & lessons

Hold sessions to raise awareness on the importance of financial education amongst youth and other participants of GMW. Through these workshops you will help to empower young people, with practical skills involving money and livelihoods. Examples could be: ‘how to manage money wisely’, ‘starting a business’, ‘applying for a job’, etc.

Panel discussions with children and teenagers

Feature real-life examples from different age groups: schoolchildren, students, recent graduates and young professionals. During a panel discussion, they can share their experiences, money-saving tips and practical tools. The session can be enhanced with experts, online videos, and practical discussions.

GMW bus delivering financial literacy workshops around the country

Do not forget to think outside the box and make it possible for everyone to take part in your GMW! Create a GMW bus that can tour through all counties in the country and reach children and youth in rural areas, too! The busses can have learning facilities to teach youngsters about money and savings, such as computers with financial games, books, and brochures.

Did you know?

In Korea, financial investment experts gave lectures on personal finance for teenagers and young people, such as on how to prepare lifelong assets. To improve accessibility, lectures were conducted through live YouTube broadcasts in the evening.
Financial literacy rally

Organise a Financial Literacy Rally with partners in your country to promote financial education.

Participants can include all the institutions that plan GMW events in your country. Plan high-level keynote speeches with a clear message. Inform press and media to come and document.

Note! Do not forget to print GMW t-shirts for the rally!

Organise savings, drawing, photo, video & essay competitions

Launch drawing, photo and essay competitions around creative themes like: ‘Why is it important to save?’, ‘My dream bank’, ‘My money tree with dreams’, ‘What are you saving for?’, ‘Money Matters Matter’, ‘If I were an entrepreneur, which business I would own?’, ‘My dream job in the future’ or ‘My business idea.’ Also, savings competitions would be a great idea! And, so many more!

For example, the National Bank of Georgia in collaboration with other stakeholders held poster and slogan contests about sustainability and the environment. The name of the contest was “Plan your money, Plant your future” and participants had the opportunity to create posters with slogans around four topics, namely responsible consumption and purchases, purchasing alternatives and waste management, physical and financial risks associated with climate change, importance of eco-friendly and sustainable business.

Research projects

Give youth research projects about ‘Money history’, ‘Different currencies in the world’, etc. Not only can students learn, but they can go and explore money museums and libraries!

Organise financial education fairs or plan open markets

Educative and interactive fairs are a great idea to showcase the work of different institutions and bring youth together. Interactive financial games and workshops can be part of it so that the students learn new skills and can interact with others.

Open Market

Children and youth can hold an Open Market at school or other location – where they can run their own lemonade stands, sell homemade jewellery or baked goods. When starting their own small businesses, children should consider factors such as starting capital, inventory, payback plans, and operating expenses – a fantastic way to develop useful financial and entrepreneurial skills, whilst having fun.

Did you know?

The Central Bank of El Salvador organised a festival called the Green Route together with various financial institutions with the objective of promoting green financial products and services. Various workshops were also organised on topics such as green and sustainable bonds, green credit and financing sustainable projects, renewable energy for financial decision making, optimisation of natural resources, among others. As a closing activity, participants joined a “Plogging” initiative, consisting in combining physical activity with garbage collection. Students had to participate in an obstacle course while collecting garbage, and, upon reaching the finish line they had to differentiate the waste in the appropriate categories of containers.

Organise books exhibitions

Make a special exhibition of books at school or local library. Books about well-known entrepreneurs can be informative and inspiring!

Many organisations develop interactive games for GMW. For example, the Financial Supervisory Authority (ASF) of Romania launched the board game Financial Detective. The game is based on 10 real financial stories (accompanied by 10 cards with financial education clues) and can be played either individually or in teams.

Organise open game sessions

Board games like Monopoly can be very interesting for younger children. These games provide a fun and interactive way to introduce money, purchases, real estate and financial management concepts in an enjoyable learning environment.

TV or radio talk shows

Youth can hold interviews on live TV or radio shows about the importance of financial education.

An open and honest conversation about closed and difficult topics

Raise awareness among teenagers about the addictive nature and risks associated with money games and betting. As part of “Protect your money,” emphasize the importance of making informed choices to avoid falling into gambling addiction and encourage responsible decision-making in various aspects of life.
Over the years, countries around the world have increased their efforts to capture and measure the level of reach, satisfaction and impact of GMW.

The GMW Secretariat warmly encourages all organisations to develop and implement ways to capture the impact of GMW activities on the short and longer term. The effects of GMW can be measured on the financial literacy levels of the target audience, on the level of awareness of the importance of financial education for young people in a given country, on the number and level and engagement of different organisations in developing and delivering financial education in a country and so on.

If you would like, or are planning to, increase the monitoring and evaluation efforts for GMW activities, please get in touch with the GMW Secretariat to share your ideas.

Did you know that...

In Ireland, the main national body responsible for carrying out GMW is the Money Advice and Budgeting Service (MABS). As part of GMW in 2022, MABS issued a ‘Money Matters Survey’ to over 1400 students aged 12 – 20. The survey served to (1) evaluate components of GMW and (2) gather primary data on the attitudes and behaviours of young persons living in Ireland concerning money and personal finance—a group that is rarely featured in national research on these topics. The survey analysis yielded interesting findings, including that young people are engaging with personal financial services from an early age, with mobile apps and social media playing a key role in this engagement. Young people are also interested in a number of money management topics—including investing, taxes, cryptocurrencies, housing, and funding for third level education. MABS plans to continue issuing the ‘Money Matters Survey’ as part of GMW on an annual basis, in order to systematically gather data and regularly analyse emerging trends in regards to young people and their money.

MONITORING AND EVALUATION EFFORTS

PUBLICITY & MEDIA

Through media coverage you can promote your work in your community, expand the reach of your message, and spread the word about GMW!

How to work with the media?

• Identify the story you want to tell
  Before you begin to develop media outreach material, consider your goals in gaining media coverage and define your focus.

• Communicate your message effectively
  Be prepared to tell your story and respond to questions. All media outreach materials should be clear, concise and persuasive, with a core set of messages.

• Create media outreach materials
  Different types of materials are used for different media outlets; create a live-read radio script for on-air announcements about your event, prepare a ready-made blog post article, or prepare a press release about your activities.

• Create a media list to contact
  Contact media outlets and reporters directly to let them know about your GMW activities. Be strategic and pick those who are most likely to cover your event, and send tailored outreach materials by email to these reporters and outlets.

• Prepare a media kit for journalists
  Include all media materials you have prepared as a background to your business, organisation or institution, and your GMW. Media kits can be handed out before or during your event, or to those who are unable to attend but have responded to media outreach efforts.

GMW BRANDING GUIDELINES

For GMW, maintaining a consistent, high quality and structured image means that we can build a stronger awareness of the Week amongst members of the public. To make this happen, we need your help!

Here are a few essential tips for GMW Branding.

Essential
These must be used when preparing promotional material.

Global Money Week Logo

Typeface
Font is called Gotham and the style is ‘Ultra’

Please Note. Throughout the GMW activities and promotional materials, you may feel free to use GMW Logo. However, please refrain from using the OECD logo, or any logo related to the OECD International Network on Financial Education (OECD/INFE) without explicit written permission from the OECD.

Recommended
We strongly recommend you include the following in your promotional material:

- GMW web address
  www.globalmoneyweek.org

- GMW dates
  18 - 24 March 2024

- GMW official hashtags
  #GlobalMoneyWeek2024 #GMW2024

- GMW’s theme/slogan
  Protect your money, secure your future
  Learn. Save. Earn.

Logo
The GMW logo should be included in every piece of material produced for the Week.

The logo is available in one primary layout - as a vertical (‘stacked’) version.

To a reasonable extent, the logo you use is left to your discretion.

Learn more at ‘Resources’ section on www.globalmoneyweek.org or click here.

We have compiled ‘GMW Branding Guidelines’ that you can access at ‘Resources’ section on www.globalmoneyweek.org or click here.

In this guidebook, you will find applications for the Campaign’s logos, colors, typefaces and design templates that express GMW brand. It covers all materials produced for the Campaign, including ideas with examples for GMW promotional materials.
Appearance
When placing the GMW logo on the page, please consider the following:

• GMW logo should, wherever possible, be used as a heading being large, if not larger, than the event title.
• On the rare occasions where this is not possible:
  - the logo must always be the largest logo on the page;
  - where Global Money Week is not clearly visible in the heading, the logo should be included at the top of the page, with any partners’ logos listed at the bottom.
• The logo used should be the highest resolution version available.

Colour use
It is intended that the GMW logo be reproduced mainly in two colours variation - core colour for text and yellow for coins. However, the coins can be in multiple colours.

To add flexibility the logo comes in 8 other colour options.

Limitation to keep in mind:
• The logo should not appear in the same colour as the background. It should stand out.

Usage
Choosing a logo
To a reasonable extent, the logo you use is left to your discretion. We only ask that the logo you select is of high quality and highly visible. Please feel welcome to use a logo colour variation that better matches your logos and background material.

With other logos
As stated earlier, the GMW logo should be the most prominent logo when used alongside other logos. Please ensure this is not jeopardized.

Incorrect usage
Consistency of the logo is critical to establishing consistency across the countries participating in GMW.

Please make sure you avoid the following:
• Do not tilt the design
• Do not enlarge or alter the proportion any part of the design
• Do not rearrange the design
• Do not use the design in a low contrast manner

Tip! For ideas and examples of GMW promotional materials please read more in ‘GMW Branding Guidelines’ on GMW website.
